

The long march to Hadrian's Wall

These soldiers have been sent from Londinium (that's London to you modern people) to Hadrian's wall to protect the Empire from those troublesome Picts (Celtic tribes in Scotland).

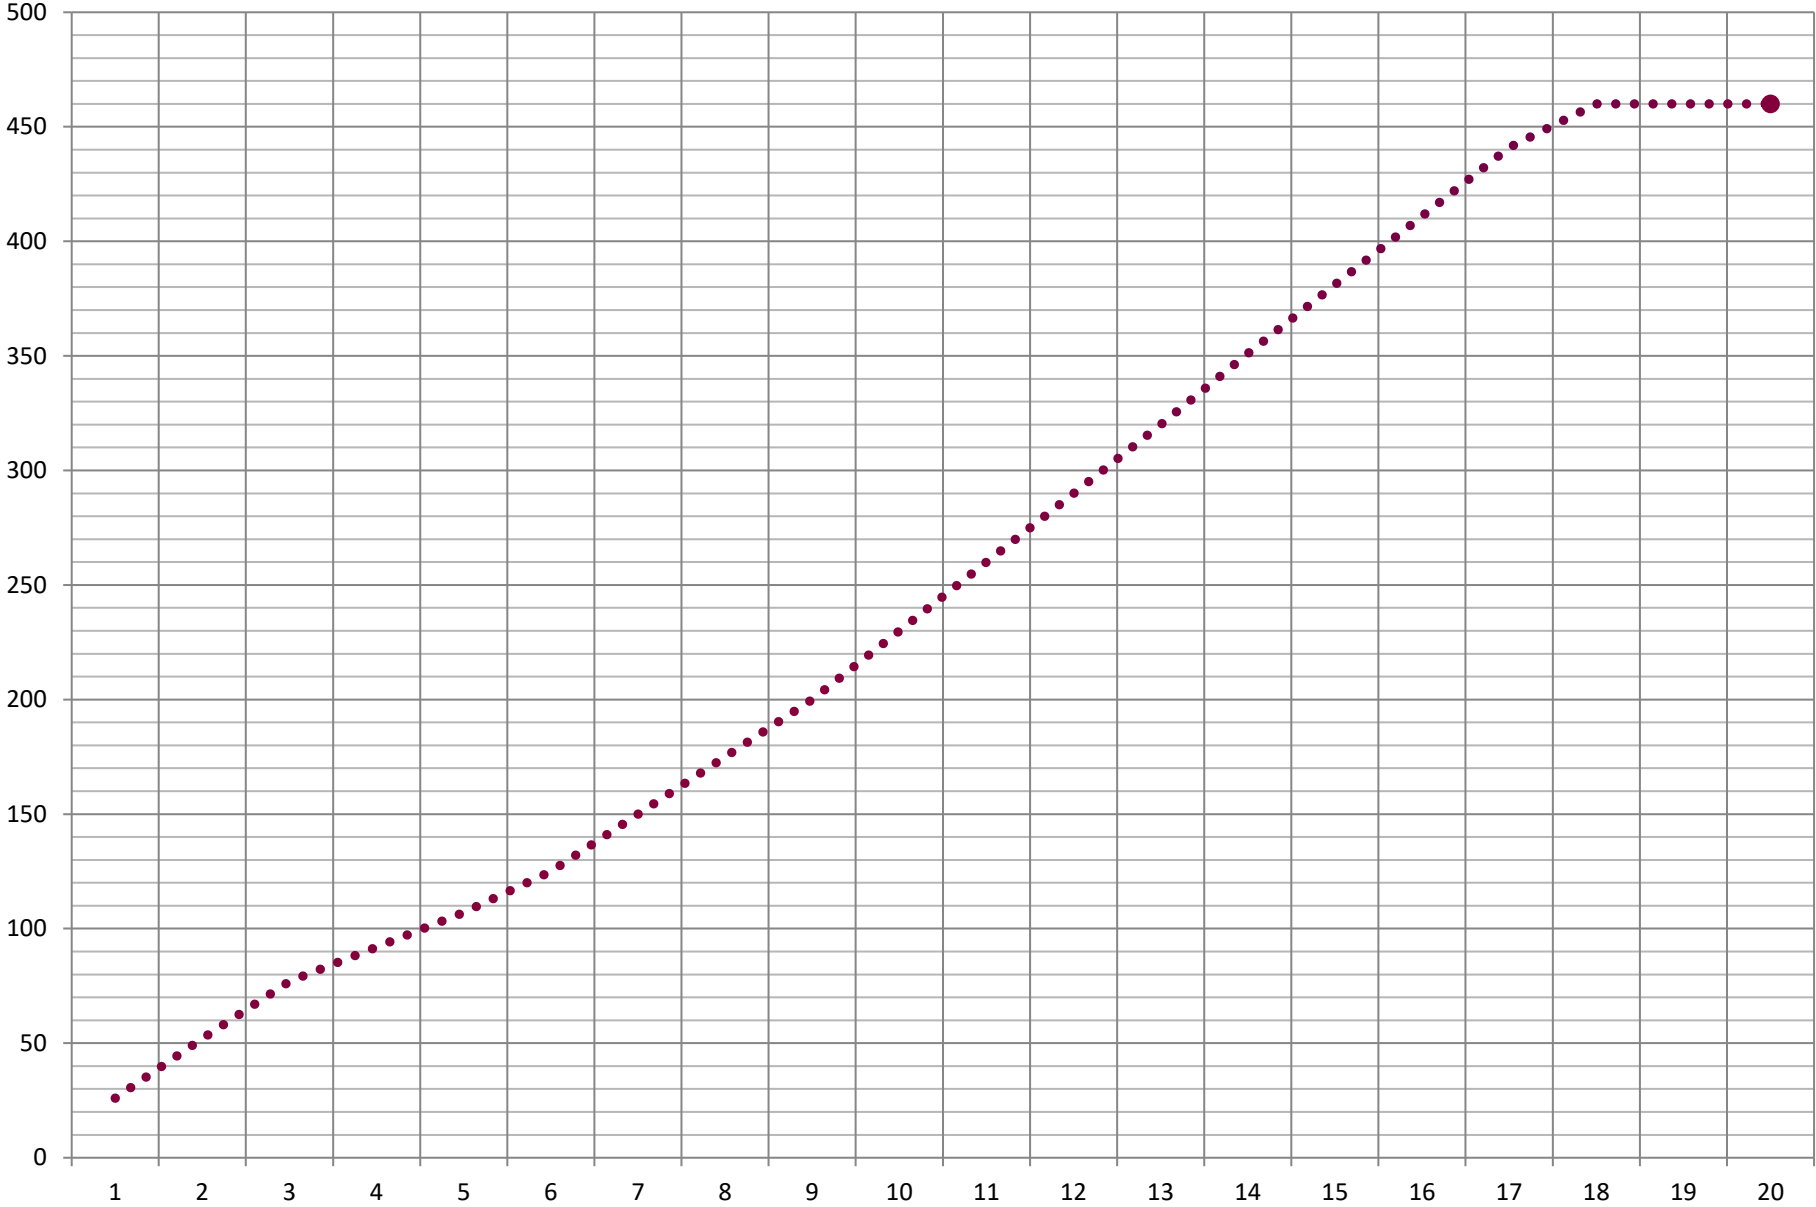

The graph shows the total distance they marched at the end of each day (in kilometres).

Can you answer these questions?

1. How far had they marched by the end of day 9?
2. How far is it from Londinium to Hadrian's Wall?
3. How long did it take the soldiers to march the whole way?
4. How far did they march on day 16?
5. Why didn't they march as far on day 18?
6. How many days did it take to march half-way to the wall?

Can you draw a table to show how far they marched each day?
